Opposition to Race Track Mounts

Little Rock, June 18 — (UP) — The race track in Gov. Ben Isane's office is bulging at the seams, and most of it contains blisters and blisters of a proposal to establish a race track at West Memphis.

All letters and petitions have been filed by June 18. In none of the answers has the governor committed himself.

Do not know what the final action will be, Caney told County Clerk Gene Cook Wednesday, but I can assure you of one thing, and that is that the welfare of the people of Arkansas will be the sole consideration.

Cook was one of the few persons who urged that the franchise be granted when the racing commission meets here Wednesday.

Cook commended the governor for refusing to allow the race track to become involved in the fight against President Truman's civil rights proposals.

"Mayor, Pleasant and Boss Crump (of Memphis) should be permitted to dictate to the leaders of our good state," Cook said.

Memphis department stores and said out houses have long been citizens of this section, so now I say let the worm turn.

Most of the letters, however, are from church people and others who bitterly oppose a second track in Arkansas.

R. D. Adams, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Little Rock, said "I beg you to use all your influence to prevent the establishment of another blot on the name of Arkansas."

Other letters are from P. H. Jernigan, moderator of the Mississippi County Baptist Association; the Ministerial Alliance of the Southern Baptist Convention, president Ridge, John D. Spivey, president of Arkansas College at Batesville, and C. E. Brown of Blytheville, president of the Arkansas Baptist State Convention.

Spivey said he opposed the track on "both moral and economic grounds."

Brown declared that he knew from first hand observation the "evils of race track gambling."

He said he served for six years as pastor of the First Baptist church at Benton, 34 miles from Oaklawn Park in Hot Springs.

Among the prominent laymen protesting the track was J. F. Fugleman, president of the Citizens Bank at Marion.

"I believe I can say without fear of successful contradiction that a great majority of the people of this state are opposed to the proposed race track," Fugleman wrote.

Meanwhile, a Little Rock newspaper predicted today that the franchise will be granted "unless Gov. Caney changes his mind."

The paper also identified two Memphis residents which it said may furnish "big money" for the track. They were listed as Raymond Freston, a member of the automobile manufacturing firm, and Miss Helen Dodge, a member of the Detroit automobile family.

The story added that 51 per cent of 13-year-old children of Arkansas are interested.

Here and There in Arkansas

Washington, June 18 — (AP) — All seven of Arkansas' representatives voted with the majority today when the House passed the new peace-time draft bill.

Little Rock, June 18 — (AP) — Two days of relief from the extreme temperatures was promised Arkansas today by the weather bureau.

"Thundershowers over much of the northern and eastern portions of the state will be accompanied by cooling breezes," the bureau said.

The weather bureau said the effect of the cooling rains and breezes would be felt throughout most of the state.

El Dorado continued with the dubious honor of the state's heat index at 100 degrees reading—10 degrees greater than in Little Rock and vicinity.

The thundershowers were generally in the second heavy rain in that region in two days.

Batesville had 1.18 inches, Augusta 1.73, Search 1.63; Calico Rock 1.95, Stuttgart 1.63, Clarendon 1.81, Vanhook 1.59 and Arkansas City 1.17.

The rains were accompanied generally by gusty high winds but no damage was reported.

Little Rock, June 17 — (AP) — A second degree murder conviction has been appealed to the Arkansas Supreme Court by James Otes Holt.

Holt was convicted in Jefferson Circuit Court for the fatal shooting of Lester Hawthorne, 26, of farmer last Aug. He was sentenced to 21 years in prison.

Little Rock, June 17 — (AP) — More than 300 farmer-committeemen and administrative officers of the Production and Marketing Administration began a two-day conference on soil conservation and other agricultural problems here today.

Asks Dismissal of 2 Suits Against Folsom

Cullman, Ala., June 17. — (UP) — A red-haired divorcee today asked dismissal of her two suits against Gov. James E. Folsom because she said she "has been used as a political tool and weapon."

Mrs. Christine Putnam Johnston and her two-year-old son petitioned circuit court here for dismissal of the suits.

In one Mrs. Johnston sought to establish herself as Folsom's common law wife. In the second, her two-year-old son asked the court to name Folsom as his father.

Mrs. Johnston's attorney, Shelburne Kingman, countered with objections to dismissal of the boy's suit. The petition for the boy was filed by his uncle, Carter Putnam, edge James H. Crow, Jr., set July 1 as the date for hearing the objections.

Kenneth Griffith, Cullman attorney for Folsom, said he believed dismissal of the two suits would be a "routine formality" by the court.

In her petition, the pretty 30-year-old divorcee said she had been and is being used as a political tool and weapon with which to fight James E. Folsom, not individually but as the governor of the state of Alabama and this was never her purpose or intention in filing this lawsuit.

In her suit, she was filed the governor was defeated badly in his campaign as a candidate for delegate to the National Democratic Convention.

She also said in effect that what she thought constituted common law relationship between man and wife was not what the law said.

"What it takes to constitute a common law marriage in the state of Alabama... Your petition has reached the conclusion that she and her defendant (Folsom) never lived together as man and wife openly and notoriously nor held themselves out to friends and acquaintances to be man and wife."

"But only there was an indefinite understanding by your petitioner that defendant would marry her at some future time not certain."

The petition to the boy's suit carried almost the same reasons for dismissal.

Although cheerfulness never has been rated as a feminine virtue or even mentioned as an attraction, it is time that we realized that instead of it being a sort of excess baggage to a woman, it is the most important quality that she possibly can possess.

It is a charm to conjure with. It is the secret of popularity. It will do more to get her a husband and keep him after she gets him than either beauty or wit will make her succeed in business and, no matter where she goes, or what she does, it always will be a prop and staff to lean upon.

As a wife, the cheerful woman is like the paragon of the Scriptures; her prime is above rubies. Every man has plenty of troubles, anxieties and discouragements in his contact with the outside world. If at night he comes home to a wife who also is sunk in woes, it drags him down into the bottomless pit.

But if he has a wife who is gay and cheerful, who can make him laugh and forget his troubles, who can fill him full of hope from her own overabundance of optimism, and who can back him up with her faith in him, he can stand anything.

Children Benefit, Too
The best gift that God can give children is a cheerful mother, because the cheerful mother can cause the child to be cheerful. Needs more than anything else in the world is a funniness. If she has that, she can laugh off many a situation out of which a tragedy can be made. She can convert her youngsters' faults into more effectively with a joke than she can by nagging. And she can keep her children at home instead of wandering the streets, because home is the gayest, jolliest place they know.

And if the mother is a cheerful woman, she can take the sting out of poverty for children, because the poorest meal is a feast if it is flavored with laughter. And, more than that, she can make her husband's life a joy, and she can give him courage and an optimism that never fails, she sends her children forth into the world to fight gallantly the battle of life and take from it what they want.

In a world that is full of trouble we all turn to cheerful people who go about diffusing light and gaiety. We crave the companionship of these who can lighten our gloom with their own optimism, who can dispel our sadness by their own high spirits, who can put a little of their own joy of living into us.

There are no greater missionaries than these cheerful women who always have something pleasant to say, some funny story to tell, some joke that sends you chuckling at your way, feeling that God is in His Heaven and all's well with the world. No matter what their private difficulties are, they never show it in their faces. They wear the smile that won't come off.

There is no one to whom we are more indebted than we are to those women who lend us from their store of good cheer.

Jessica was cold, nervous and unstrung as she left the hospital and hurried toward a bus. When she stopped at Doris' cottage he that Tom had come to fetch Betsy home.

Had anything happened? Doris did not know. Just that Tom thought it time for Betsy to have her father and go to bed.

In concern over how to explain her prolonged absence, Jessica almost forgot the disturbing events of the afternoon. As she entered the house she heard Betsy's voice in the kitchen and tossing aside her hat and without removing her coat, she hurried down the hall.

The kitchen door stood open. She saw Betsy seated in her high chair, finishing a bowl of cereal while Tom sat by and encouraged her to eat her supper. They were quite unaware of her presence, the blond-haired baby and the big man she resembled so closely, the same gray-blue eyes.

"Like Lucy?" thought Jessica, and suddenly her thoughts flew back to that moment when she had looked into eyes so similar and wondered if the girl whose face was disguised with bandages could be Lucy.

How could she tell Tom? He was burdened now with the care of a helpless mother. She could not tell him now, thought Jessica, and hurried forward to see the head nurse. Betsy, who lavished all her attention upon her father.

Tom asked no questions. If he wondered where she had been or what had caused her delay, he gave no indication. Her encouraged Betsy to drink her milk and then lifted her down from the table. "Have you had your dinner?" he asked Jessica.

She slid out of her coat and started toward the door. "No." "Neither have I."

Food—that was a topic she and Tom could discuss safely. She thought with scorn. What they would eat and Betsy. Two subjects that caused no breaking down of the barrier between them which grew higher every day she remained here. Irritably she flung the coat across a chair in the hall and returned to the kitchen. She opened an apron, opened the refrigerator and studied its contents. Guiltily she remembered that she had rushed off intending to pick up something downtown, a steak or chops. She turned to Tom who was on his way toward the door carrying Betsy.

"Eggs," she suggested. "Anything will do," he said indifferently. His manner hinted that he thought her incapable of skillful planning. Maybe he remembered Genevieve's skill in cooking, she thought, as she went about collecting material for a salad. When Tom offered to put Betsy to bed and stated that he could look after his mother meanwhile, she said crossly, "Very well."

She heard Betsy's low chuckle as they mounted the stairs. The bedroom door above closed upon them. She set the table with places. Always before Betsy had been present to share the meal. Often Tom ate after she and the first time she had and disturbed together like any ordinary married couple to share a meal.

This was her opportunity to talk to Tom about Lucy.

She considered ways to approach the subject at the best and about frying potatoes, carefully brushing them as she had seen Tom's mother do, anxiously heating the frying pan for the eggs and measuring the coffee.

Should she say directly, Tom, I visited the hospital this afternoon and saw your sister Lucy? How could she make that bald statement?

She didn't want Tom to hate her. She didn't want to become involved in any emotional situation with him right now. She was too unweary tonight after her interview with David.

She thought of David. David would demand that she leave this house—soon.

How could she? Tom came down the stairs and entered the kitchen carrying the evening paper. He sat down and began to read the headlines.

Jessica brought the plate of hot food and put it down before him. He dropped the paper and smiled. "This looks good. I didn't know you could cook."

"I can't," confessed Jessica. "Just eggs and coffee. Simple things."

Fair Enough

New York, June 17 — Howard Hughes, the moving picture magnate who produced no airplanes for $40 millions of public money, has made public a letter to Senator Ralph Unrath of Maine, offering him $300 a week to start as an actor. You are no amateur, Hughes wrote. "Your ability as an actor has been well demonstrated. Also, you are the perfect type for some parts of the movie business."

We here have a senator publicly mocked in his office of investigator of outrageous corruption in the war production program by a man who could not deny that he had conspired with a professional burglar to get the money of the government and seduce them from propriety.

Hughes finds himself singularly free of the restraints which affect the course of men of fastidious morals and ethics. He is not embarrassed by disclosures which would intimidate a more sensitive citizen.

In the early part of 1947, Hughes saw an investigation coming. He had spent money to hire women to act as social companions of prominent agents and for booze and luxurious meals and had charged this expense to the ultimate taxpayer as part of the cost of the planes which he did not need for his $40 millions.

He had spent about $4,000 on the wedding expenses and on extravagant personal entertainment of Elliott Roosevelt, then ranked as a colonel, in expensive hotels and night clubs of Hollywood and New York. There was testimony among the disclosures, that Hughes's social-traffic manager, Johnny Meyer, gave a $20 bill to Faye Emerson, who was to become the third Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, and a batch of nylon stockings. Nylon was rare or than $20 bills at the time and were regarded as a persuasive gift in the quest of helpful influence.

Anticipating disclosure, Hughes hired Carl Byoir and Associates, the New York and Washington public relations and propaganda firm, to see him through. They did what they could. Hughes was able to appear to turn the tables on Senator Brewster and to make Brewster seem to be a guilty fellow, although the record does not justify this impression. Actually, there was a defendant and a batch of nylon stockings. Nylon was rare or than $20 bills at the time and were regarded as a persuasive gift in the quest of helpful influence.

Robinson Must Weigh in Again for Fight

Chicago, June 19 — (UP) — The Illinois Athletic Commission ruled today that Ray (Sugar) Robinson must weigh in again for his rescheduled welterweight title bout with Bernard Docusen, or forfeit his title.

Officials said if Robinson failed to report for a weigh-in for his fight Monday night with the young New Orleans boxer, he also would risk suspension and loss of $11,000 in prize money.

Robinson had sought to avoid another weigh-in after the fight at Comiskey Park was postponed Thursday night because of threatening weather. He barely made the 147 weight on his first trip to the scales, while Docusen weighed 145 1/2.

There was shocking testimony in summary evidence against Hughes, Johnny Meyer and Elliott Roosevelt in the hearings in Washington. Nevertheless, by artful manipulation of the publicity and the timing of dramatic incidents, Hughes walked off triumphant, although not with honors. Elliott Roosevelt had been so heavily mined in the wallow of the notorious John Hartford Loan and other gobs, done with the guilty knowledge of his imperial sire, that nothing could embarrass him. The army could have tried him on many specifications in the matter of his debts and in accordance with a special order by Gen. H. H. Arnold, warning all officers that "acceptance of the most casual entertainment or insignificant gift, however innocently intended, may tend to so compromise the air and prestige of the service as to seriously impair public confidence."

Nobody had the effrontery to say that any of Hughes's entertainment of Elliott Roosevelt, including the wild party celebrating the definite closing of his imperial contract, which Elliott had promoted, was "innocently intended." It was all done for motives absolutely delinquent of General Arnold's special order and of the ethics of professional buyers and purveyors of private business as well as in public life. The final report of the special Senate committee on its investigation of the national defense program says:

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh S. Pullerton, Jr.

New York, June 19 — (UP) — A different idea on Class "D" baseball—especially salaries—from a guy who's in the middle of it and doesn't want his name used:

"Our league no more than broke even last year, which may have been about as good a year as it ever will have. A lot of people work mighty hard for nothing to keep it at that level. The kids want to play and they're not too unhappy. They have little spending money, but they're just as well off. They get enough to pay room and board and buy necessities. And that's all they need from baseball while they are 16, 19 or 20 years old. Probably one of the faults is that some players hang on too long just because they love it. They are likely to be married, old or, fathers, etc. It may be a serious thing with them."

Is This The Answer?
This correspondent from the Midlands proposes a rule that no Class "D" or "C" club could have more than three seasons of pro experience. That might make the trick provision was made for a few older guys to teach them. Possibly some sort of territorial restriction would help so that each league and club would have to draw its material from right around home. Admitting that $175 a month isn't bad pay for an 18-year-old during the months he collects it, we contend that when a kid just out of high school is taken from his home town and set down in Ponca City, Okla., to play baseball he should be assured some way of earning a living the year around. He doesn't stop eating when the season ends.

Dunklin Man To Beat for State Title
Pine Bluff, June 19 — (UP) — If anyone had ever doubted it, they knew George Dunklin still is the man to beat for the men's singles title in the Arkansas state tennis tournament.

The Pine Bluff ace survived his first three matches without being pressed yesterday and was favored today to earn a spot in tomorrow's final. Dunklin, who didn't lose a set in advancing to the semi-finals, today will meet the winner of the quarterfinal match between George Crotson of Hot Springs, and Jack Jewadown of Crossett.

The other quarterfinal contests remaining to be played today pitted Donald Pritchard, Little Rock, against Eugene Lambert of Fayetteville, the University of Arkansas basketball and tennis coach, and Lawrence Lutz of Fort Smith, against Jimmy Bell, Little Rock.

The only notable casualty in yesterday's singles play was third-seeded Jay Freeman of Little Rock, who lost to Pritchard in the second round.

Principal action in the men's doubles division was carded today, only one match having been played yesterday.

C. J. Hixson of Fort Smith and Charles Grigger, Blytheville, advanced to the finals of the junior singles and will meet Sunday for the title.

Hixson also will be in the doubles championship match, in which his teammate will be Glendon Grober, also of Fort Smith.

Major League Scouts Looking Mitchell Over
Jarratt, Va., June 19. — (UP) — Benny Mitchell, the 20-year-old semi-pro pitcher "phenom," was scheduled to pitch his big game today, and the major league scouts were showing each other for seats in the stands.

Benny is the lanky farm boy who pitched two no-hitters in three weeks and then turned down big money offers because he was needed on his peanut and tobacco farm.

This is the big game of the season for Benny and his Jarratt club of the Southside semi-pro league, because the opponent is the Stony Creek club, with whom Jarratt is tied for first place. Benny will be trying to duplicate the perfect game he pitched last week and the scouts will be trying to get his signature on a contract.

The sixfoot right-hander retired all 27 batters last week and then started saying, "no" to offers.

Bathers Gain on Leading Greenwood

By The Associated Press

The Hot Springs bathers have pushed to three and a half games of the Cotton States league lead. The bathers handed Helena a 7-0 shutout last night while Greenwood's Dodgers, top of the league, were idle.

Clarkdale's Planters took a 10-1 decision from Pine Bluff while Greenville and Natchez split a twin bill, Natchez winning the opener 158 in 11 innings and losing the second 3-2.

Lefty Coughlin of the abBthers led Helena to four hits as the bathers marked up their third straight win over Helena. He pitched hitless ball until the seventh when Harry Schindler, Helena centerfielder, scratched a single to short.

Clarkdale had a snaky game until the eighth inning. Tied 1-1 with Pine Bluff the Planters staged a nine run rally in that frame to put the game on ice.

At Greenville the Dodgers jumped to a 7-3 lead in the second frame of the first game only to see the Indians tie the count at 3 all in the first of the eighth. Both teams were hitless until the seventh when Natchez cut loose with seven runs. The second game was somewhat of the same order with Greenville nosing out the Indians by one run.

Tonight Helena plays at Pine Bluff, Clarkdale at Hot Springs, Greenville at El Dorado and Greenwood at Natchez.

Travelers Edge Mobile 7-6 in Eleventh Inning
By The Associated Press

Atlanta and Chattanooga split a twin bill and as a result the latter dropped to seventh place in the Southern Association behind Little Rock. The Travelers edged Mobile, 7 to 6.

Atlanta won the seven-inning first game, 135, with eight runs in the last inning and Chattanooga took her highup, 5-4, with a run in the bottom of the ninth.

Nashville outlasted Birmingham, 13-12, and Memphis nosed out New Orleans, 6-5, as the clubs all opened a new round of play.

The game at Little Rock was tied three times with each team getting a run in the ninth to force the tilt into overtime. A crowd of 5,792 largest for Little Rock since opening day, saw the Travrs lead their ninth victory in 12 starts over the Braves.

Clayton Le Garza, scored in the 11th to score George Morgan with the winning run.

Memphis scored three times in the last of the ninth with one out Ollie Kelly's single with the bases loaded drove in the winning run. New Orleans had gone in front in the fifth after the Chicks had taken a 31 lead in the second. Chuck Eisenmann was the winner in a relief role.

Today's schedule:
Chicago at Chattanooga.
Mobile at Little Rock.
New Orleans at Memphis.

Musial Leads Cards Toward Pennant

By RALPH RODEN

Associated Press Sports Writer Stan Musial is on the warpath again and the fortunes of the St. Louis Cardinals are rising in the National League pennant race.

The Donora, Pa., clown has hit safely in ten of his last 11 official trips to the plate to boost his league-leading batting mark to .4051.

His terrific hitting has sparked the Cardinals to three straight victories, two over the Philadelphia Phillies and one over the New York Giants.

In addition to pacing the circuit in batting, Musial is in the running for every other important individual offensive honor. The Red Bird star leads the loop in runs scored, hits, and triples.

Musial went 3 for 4 against the Giants yesterday as the Cards outslugged the Giants, 128 in New York. It was the Giants' fifth straight defeat.

The fleet outfielder entered the game boasting a string of seven straight hits. He singled in his first trip to make it eight in a row, flied out in his second, singled in his third, homered in his fourth and walked in his final. Musial scored twice, to bring his lifetime total to 600 runs.

The victory increased the Cardinals' margin over the fourth place Giants to two games, but the Reds remained a game and a half off the pace of the front-running Boston Braves.

Billy Eastworth's Braves came from behind and nosed out the Cincinnati Reds, 5-4, in a night game at Boston. The Braves broke a 4-4 tie in the seventh inning.

The second place Pittsburgh Pirates turned back the Phillies, 2-0, in a night game at Philadelphia to remain a half game behind the Braves and a game ahead of the Cardinals.

The Chicago Cubs scored four runs in the eighth inning to overcome a 4-2 deficit and went on to beat the Dodgers, 6-4, in a day game at Brooklyn.

All activity in the American League took place at night. The second place Philadelphia Athletics nipped the first place Cleveland Indians, 5-4, to pull to within a game of the Tribe. The St. Louis Browns edged the New York Yankees, 2-1, and the Chicago White Sox beat the Washington Senators, 5-2.

A well pitched game at St. Louis, Cliff Fanning held the Yankees to three hits.

A scheduled night game between the Boston Red Sox and the Tigers in Detroit was postponed because of rain.
